MANY BILLS OF LOCAL NATURE

Introduced by Legislators Yesterday.

Several of Statewide Importance—Bill in House Making Provision For Popular Vote on Convention to Amend Certain Sections of Constitution—New Orleans Endorsed For Panama Canal Celebration.

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—The third day of the session of the legislature was taken up mainly with the introduction of a large number of local bills by the members of the two branches. There were several bills of statewide importance, however. A bill was introduced by Representative Battle, of Wake, providing for the reduction of the peremptory challenges of a defendant from 23 to 9 and allowing the state seven.

Stubs of Martin introduced a bill making provision for a popular vote as to calling a convention for the purpose of amending certain sections of the State Constitution.

The House passed on second reading the resolution endorsing New Orleans for the Panama Canal celebration.

Senate—Third Day.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock, prayer being offered by Rev. H. M. North, Edenton Street Methodist church.

At the request of Senator Bassett, of the appropriations committee, the Senate authorized the president to appoint a clerk to that committee to relieve the chairman of the burden of the work, the law requiring that all appropriation bills be referred to that committee and a correct record kept.

Bills and Resolutions Introduced.

Holden, of Franklin: Ratifying the sixteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States adopted by Congress. Empowering Congress to levy and collect an income tax and directing that a certified copy be sent to the secretary of state at Washington and the presiding officers of both branches of Congress. Referred to the committee on constitutional amendment.

Fisher, of Polk: Voting for New Orleans as the place for holding the World's Fair.

Gardner, of Cleveland: Amending section 2736 relating to the salary of the governor.

Leaves of absence were granted as follows: Senators Hobgood, Cobb and Starbuck to Monday; Ivie to Tuesday; Cartwright and Martin, of Washington, indefinitely.

President Newland announced the appointment of E. F. Dixon as clerk to the judiciary committee.

The Senate at 11:35 adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

The House—Third Day.

The House convened at 11 o'clock Speaker Dowd in the chair. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. McC. White, of the Presbyterian church. Chairman Doughton announced amendments to the House rules of 1909 so committees can report bills without majorities being present and specifying who can move the previous question.

Battle, of Wake, offered a resolution for the removal of the old house on the lot at the southwest corner of Capital Square owned by the state.

Under a suspension of the rules permission was voted for the North Carolina Historical Commission to use the Representatives Hall for the ceremonies for unveiling the marble bust of the lamented United States Senator Matt. W. Ransom January 11, the bust being in one of the niches in the rotunda of the capitol.

Koonce of Onslow offered a joint resolution to investigate the conduct of insurance companies in North Carolina. The bill provides a court of inquiry with power to summons witnesses and require production of books and documents and is to consist of two senators and three representatives. The plan is for the investigation to be much along the line that was indicated in the message of Governor Kitchin, and with a view to preventing higher premiums and less agents commissions in this state than in others with similar fire risks and to prevent combinations to control premiums.

Bills Introduced.

Devlin, of Granville: Authorize Oxford School Board to issue bonds.

Battle of Wake: Improve administration of criminal laws of the State.

The bill introduced by Battle of Wake, to improve the administration of criminal law in North Carolina provides for a reduction of the number of peremptory challenges for the defendant from 23 to 9 and allowing the state 7, the special venues to be drawn from the regular box. It also provides that the judge may summons jurors from an adjoining county when conditions justify such action.

Pace of Wake: Protect labor organizations.

Carr of Durham: Enable Trinity College to hold more property. This was placed on the calendar for speedy enactment so that the college may receive additional donations for rebuilding the administration building recently burned. Stubs of Martin: Call constitutional convention for North Carolina vote on "convention" or "no convention" to be at the regular election 1912 and if carried, the convention to be in Raleigh convening first Monday in May, 1913, and to be constituted as is the General Assembly. The purpose is to change the State constitution in many important particulars in which the bill declares that it is unsuited to the wants and condition of the people.

Carr, of Duplin, introduced a bill increasing the annual appropriation to the State Geological and Economic Survey from $10,000 to $15,000.

The House adjourned at noon to 11 tomorrow.

MR. FISHBLATE'S FUNERAL

Service Conducted from Home of Mr. M. Vanstory.

The funeral of Mr. E. R. Fishblate, whose remains were brought to this city yesterday from New York, for burial, was conducted yesterday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. Melton Clark, from the home of Mr. C. M. Vanstory on Elm street.

Mrs. Katz, the only daughter of the deceased, her husband, and their son accompanied the body to Greensboro and were present at the funeral. Most of the pall-bearers and others who assisted at the funeral and interment were old friends and former employees of Mr. Fishblate, and there were others present who knew him and held him in high honor and esteem when he was a resident of this place.

The remains were interred in Green Hill cemetery beside the grave of the wife, who died in New York in 1907.

It is singular that Mr. and Mrs. Katz were forced to leave Greensboro soon after the funeral to hasten to Pittsburg, where Dr. Fishblate, a brother of the deceased, is very ill.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

G. H. McKinney, Admr., Awarded Damages in Sum of $3,500.

Yesterday in Guilford Superior Court in the case of G. H. McKinney, administrator of John W. Nunn, deceased, against the North Carolina Railroad Co., damages were awarded to amount of $3,500. Suit was brought for $25,000. The deceased was killed while in the service of the defendant railroad, near the passenger station at this place nearly two years ago. He was a brakeman and was at his post of duty when killed.

D. H. McCulloch lost his suit against the Justice Drug Co. He was suing for $5,000 damages on account of injuries sustained by a truck several years ago. Today is the last day of the term and it is not likely that any jury cases will be tried, the major portion of the day being consumed in hearing motions, etc. This afternoon at 3 o'clock a meeting of the bar will be held for the purpose of fixing a calendar for the term of civil court to begin on Monday, January 16.

Time of Meeting Changed.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon in the office of the Secretary. It was decided to change the date of the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Chamber of Commerce from Friday evening, Jan. 13, to Tuesday evening, January 17. This change was made on account of the fact that the anniversary service of the Laymen's Movement will be held on next Friday evening. At the annual meeting of the Chamber the reports of the different committees will be heard and there will be spicy talks by the members. A committee has been appointed to have charge of the social end of the meeting.

Woman's Club Meets Today.

Members of the Woman's Club are asked to remember the regular monthly meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Carnegie library. A meeting of the executive committee will be held at 10 o'clock, and members are urged to be punctual. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance, as several important matters will come before the club.

A LECTURE ON PUBLIC HEALTH

Dr. J. R. McCommack Will Speak Here.

Noted Physician of Bowling Green, Ky., Invited to Address Citizens of City and County—Expected To Be Here During First Week in February—Will Also Lecture Before Guilford County Medical Society.

That the people of Greensboro and Guilford county will in the near future have an opportunity of hearing Dr. J. R. McCommack, of Bowling Green, Ky., lecture on health and sanitation is practically assured. It is expected that he will be in Greensboro during the first week in February and the exact date will be known in a few days.

Some days ago Dr. McCommack wrote Secretary Parran Jarboe, of the Guilford Medical Society, that he would probably visit Greensboro in the near future and at the meeting of the society Thursday afternoon a unanimous invitation to make a public address while in Greensboro was extended Dr. McCommack. Secretary Jarboe expects to hear from Dr. McCommack within the next few days, stating the exact date he will be in the city. As soon as the reply is received the County Medical Society will set about making preparations for the occasion.

Dr. McCommack is ex-president of the American Medical Association and is considered one of the leading authorities of the country on matters pertaining to public health and sanitation. He is at present traveling over the country in the interest of public health, giving lectures in all the larger cities to which invitations are received. He will deliver two lectures in Greensboro—one to the public in the afternoon and the other at night before the physicians of the county.

Arrangements will be made to secure some convenient hall for the public meeting in the afternoon and a most cordial invitation to attend will be extended the people of the county and city. As there is considerable interest being taken in matters pertaining to the public health at present there will no doubt be a large number out to hear the subjects discussed by this eminent physician who has given considerable study to the questions involved.

The question of conserving the health of the country is one that is uppermost in the minds of many people at this time. For some time the County Medical Society has been holding monthly public meetings at which some one of the diseases that are menacing the health of the people, largely because the proper preventative measures are not known or are not taken, have been discussed. Until recently the physicians of the country have not realized that their work of teaching the people to prevent disease is of the same importance as is their work of curing diseases after they have been contracted. The medical society of Guilford county was the first society in the State to reach this conclusion and since that time the members have been exerting every effort to educate the people along lines of sanitation and public health. Realizing that the first step must be one of education the members have volunteered their services in examining the children of the public schools, free of charge, and sending to the parents of the children reports showing just how each child is diseased, if an examination reveals there is something wrong physically. The County Board of Education and the County Commissioners have also joined in this movement, the result of which promises to be of a most far reaching nature.

Meeting of Masons.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons will convene in Raleigh next Tuesday. A number of Greensboro Masons will go down to attend the sessions. One of the most interesting reports to be made will be regarding the location of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home at Greensboro, work on which will be commenced at an early date.

BAILEY A STORM CENTRE

Contest in Texas Is Beginning a Year In Advance.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The political situation in Texas is mighty interesting just at present and, as usual, Senator Bailey is the storm center.

The acuteness of the present situation was reflected in a story printed in The Sun some time ago. It was stated that five, and possibly six, Texas members of the House were preparing to attack Bailey and had concocted a plan to embarrass him by introducing tariff reform bills from day to day, placing upon the free lists materials that Bailey had added in protecting. The six men mentioned were Congressmen Burleson, Smith, Randall, Hardy and Stephens, with Congressman Slayden regarded as occupying a doubtful position. About the same time a story of an alleged conversation between Champ Clark and Col. Henry Watterson concerning the Texas situation appeared in a Texas newspaper, which added fuel to the fire and increased the belligerency of the rival forces.

Since the sensational charges made against the Senator four years ago the party has been divided into Bailey and anti-Bailey camps. Since these charges Bailey has had his course approved by the people, and his following is in full command of State politics. But the minority has remained bitter and persistent.

Bailey must go before the people in a direct primary in the summer of 1913 to secure re-election, and those who are anxious to succeed him as well as those who wish to destroy him have endured the strain of waiting as long as they can. Although the election is far in the offing, the dogs of political warfare have been unleashed and intense feeling exists between his friends and the foes.

Some of the anti-Bailey Congressmen are understood to think the toga now worn by Mr. Bailey would look better on their shoulders than on his, and are grooming themselves to enter the field against him. Their difficulty is going to be to centre their forces upon one man.

Prior to the last session, the story is told here, some of William J. Bryan's friends in Washington conferred with various anti-Bailey Congressmen and explained that Mr. Bryan was about to descend upon Texas and attack Bailey on his tariff record and that if he did, he would surely "knock Bailey through the ropes." This argument, it is said, had some influence with several members of the Texas delegation and led them to accentuate their hostility to Bailey, so that when the knockout came they would be "in right." The prophecies of Bryan's friends, however, were not fulfilled and Bailey is still very much in the ring in Texas.

Senator Bailey has strong friends as well as bitter enemies in the Texas delegation. Representatives John Garner, Morris Sheppard and Jack Beall are regarded as out and out Bailey men. Their districts are, however, divided on the tariff question, it is stated, and the subject is bound to give them a good deal of concern. None of the anti-Bailey men admits that the introduction of separate tariff reduction bills is part of a plan to fight Bailey. Representative Smith declared his bill was not aimed at Mr. Bailey and was no part of a plot or indication of a fight against him, but was simply a measure in which he believed as a Democrat and which was in accord with the Democratic national platform. Other Texas Congressmen say there has been no anti-Bailey plan of attack formed. The Bailey people, however, fully believe there is a conspiracy against him upon the part of the hostile Texan Congressmen.

Senator Bailey does not seem to be worrying over the situation. His friends say the free raw material doctrine, as advocated by Mr. Bryan, has been repudiated in Texas and the men who espoused it have been defeated. The last States platform in Texas, it is claimed, fully endorsed Bailey's tariff position and a full state ticket of Bailey adherents was elected. The anti-Bailey people assert that, notwithstanding this, the sentiment against the Senator is growing and they believe he will be defeated.

Bailey's friends say that it is one thing to introduce bills in Washington and mail speeches to constituents, but it is quite another to meet "Joe" Bailey on the stumps in Texas. In the end, it is asserted, this is what those who are not attacking him will have to do, and even his bitterest enemies admit that in oratory, compelling logic and personal magnetism, Senator Bailey has few equals. A great many persons here who do not admire Mr. Bailey personally or approve of his record are willing to agree that he has one of the best—if not the best—minds in the Senate and that his position on the tariff in the next session is a matter of great importance.

MOTHER AND SON ARE ASPHYXIATED

Sad Accident in Raleigh Last Night.

Mrs. Bannister and Little Son Overcome By Gas While Preparing to Take a Bath—Found Later by Servant—Much Money Spent Out of State For Food and Feedstuff That Could Be Raised in This State.

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Bannister, wife of Manager Bannister of the Western Union Telegraph office of this city, and her 17-months-old son were tonight asphyxiated by gas. The mother had taken the child into the bath room, closed the door, and disrobed for a bath. When she turned on the gas on an instantaneous water heater, the apparatus in some way got out of order and suddenly filled the room with a volume of gas.

A short while later a servant entered the room and found the body of the woman on the floor and that of the child across a chair.

State Agronomist J. L. Burgess is a supplementary bulletin just issued from the state department of agriculture gives some very valuable and significant estimates of food products shipped into North Carolina that ought to be grown by the farmers of the State. It shows that not less than 80,500 tons of milk feed valued at $1,368,000 came into the State; $4,227,686 worth of wheat and flour; $6,877,148.66 worth of cured meat; $1,123,166 worth of corn and oats; $221,875 worth of hay; $49,655 worth of butter. This special investigation by State Agronomist Burgess shows that every farmer should make it a point to at least raise his own home supplies rather than to what special crop his lands may be adapted. He says he would expect all counties to raise all of their home supplies but sees no reason why the crop development should not be such as to enable the average to be brought to that point where the home supply products should not be sufficient to eliminate the heavy drain to which the State is now being subjected in purchasing these supplies elsewhere.

A children's reading room will be fitted up at the Ramey public library by the Woman's Club of Raleigh. A special librarian is to be in charge to direct the practice of systematic reading on the part of the children.

The winter course in agriculture has opened auspiciously at the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. This is to be an eight weeks course and President Hill says fifty men have already entered to take special training in farming methods.

The state department of agriculture has just issued a bulletin carrying the annual report of the farmers' institute work as directed by Capt. T. B. Parker and the principal addresses of the workers. The bulletin contains valuable information of all the important phases of farming and those by the ladies on farm home management treat of the work of farmers' wives and daughters. There is also a recent bulletin on stock feeds that will prove valuable to the farmers.

FRED GILMER'S TRIAL

Defence Will Have Hearing In Court This Morning.

The case of Fred Gilmer, the negro who on Nov. 29, last, shot Bertha Wise with a pistol, will be resumed in Municipal court this morning.

The case was continued from Thursday, in order that the defendant's counsel might have time to procure some evidence that could not have been prepared had the case been called yesterday.

It is more than likely that an effort will be made to show that the defendant's mental equipment is such as to make him not responsible for his deeds.

Death of Mrs. Bandy's Father.

Mrs. J. M. Bandy and children, Miss Lucile and Wilbur Joyner, have returned from Laurinburg where they were called two weeks ago on account of the illness of Mrs. Bandy's father, Mr. W. J. Murphy. Mr. Murphy died last Monday night.

For this and for other reasons the speech which Senator Bailey is scheduled to make in Baltimore on January 17 is awaited with unusual interest, particularly in Texas, where the fight is brewing.

"AH, THERE, MARS!" CRIES VENUS
"I'M A SHOOTING OVER TO YOU!"

Mr. See Who Sees Starts a Heavenly Inquiry That Produces Surprising Results.

New York World.

Armed with the statement of Prof. Thomas Jefferson Jackson See, the astronomer in charge of the United States Naval Observatory at Mare Island, Cal., who says that the planet Venus is inhabited, a reporter for The World went forth yesterday to gain some local information on the subject.

The first astronomer encountered was Prof. Norman Ferment, who was busy making observations through a short glass, containing a certain liquid, rather red in color. Prof. Ferment refused to be interviewed until he had measured out the proper amount needed in his calculations by placing four fingers around the glass.

"Did Prof. See say that he saw these things?" asked the local astronomer, balancing one foot on the rail. "If he has, that releases me from the obligation to keep the secret he entrusted to me years ago."

"Venus is inhabited, of course. I'll tell you how it came about. Mars, as all of us clever fellows know, is inhabited. The dwellers there used to include a number of fine looking men. They were so handsome that the women on Venus—beauties, believe me, 'cause I have seen them—began to flirt with them across space. On the night that Halley's Comet stole all the attention of the other planets, Venus and Mars ran close to each other and the interstellar transportation lines had a sudden rush of 'through' traffic."

"As a result there were soon many engagements and a marrying parson got very busy. But the men became so disagreeable that the women became suffragettes and tossed the men overboard. That is the origin of the shooting stars."

"At present there are no men on Venus, despite what Prof. See may say. The population is composed entirely of women who have given themselves over to the creation of fashions and to the formation of women's clubs and bridge whist organizations."

"They had a great time on New Year's Eve. Everybody but the suffragettes tanked up on high balls and champagne. There were some perfectly scandalous doings and I understand from what I saw, that the clubs contemplate dropping some of the members."

Saves Two Lives.

"Neither my sister nor myself might be living today, if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery," writes A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C., R. F. D. No. 9, "for we both had frightful coughs that no other remedy could help. We were told my sister had consumption. She was very weak and had night sweats but your wonderful medicine completely cured us both. It's the best I ever used or heard of." For sore lungs, coughs, colds, hemorrhage, la-grippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough, all bronchial troubles, it's supreme. Trial bottle free. 50c. and $1.00. Wouldn't Stand It.

"Look here!" exclaimed the angry chappie in the evening suit, "this is an outrage! I've been mistaken for a waiter twice."

"Sh-h!" whispered the proprietor of the restaurant. "Not so loud. I knew it. Two waiters have already quit on account of the mistake, and I don't want the rest to go."—Cleveland Leader.

MARSE HENRY LEAVES.

Colonel Watterson Sails Today, Wishing But Doubting God May Pull the Party Through.

Col. Henry Watterson, veteran editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, sails on the Amerika for Europe today to remain away until May. He leaves Democracy behind to work out its salvation or assistance. He says he believes that "the grace of God may pull the Democrats through, even if there isn't much grace in the party as yet."

"The trouble with the Democrats," said Marse Henry to a reporter for the World at the Waldorf last night "is that they have been playing politics like children for 20 years. Cleveland played politics like a child in one way and Bryan in another."

"Just now the party has come back into power without any coherence or preparation. In Congress the Democrats have commenced very illy by the appointment of this so-called committee on committees. It's a poor scheme, I think. Under its operation no one shoulders responsibility. Mark my word, the Democrats in Congress, if this committee-on-committees idea prevails, will be like a ship without a rudder or compass in an open sea."

"Well, if the Democrats are in a hole, what about the Republicans?" Watterson was asked.

"I never was vitally interested in them."

"And Colonel Roosevelt?"

"Very still! Very still," vouchsafed Marse Henry, a pleased expression stealing over his face. "The stillness is almost audible. Roosevelt's jumping into the bull ring of the lowest kind of politics during the recent election can only be compared to Napoleon's march on Moscow in the winter."

"It was suggested to Marse Henry that maybe the Colonel was ill-advised."

"Oh, no!" laughed the veteran editor. "Impossible! The Colonel is never advised."

Old Soldier Tortured.

"For years I suffered unspeakable torture from indigestion, constipation and liver trouble," wrote A. K. Smith, a war veteran at Erie, Pa., "but Dr. King's New Life Pills fixed me all right. They are simply great." Try them for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Only 25c. at Fariss-Klutts Drug Co.

Those Newspaper Yarns.

A worthy old dame of New England once invited her husband's attention to what seemed to her a curious item in the journal she was looking at. "Listen to this," said she, reading:

"The Mary H. Barker, of Gloucester reports that she saw two whales, a cow and a calf, floating off Cape Cod the day before yesterday."

"Well, what about it?" asked the husband.

"Only this," replied his spouse. "I can understand about the two whales, but what beats me is, how the cow and the calf got 'way out there'—Lippincott's."

FREAKS OF NATURE.

Two Queer Rock Formations on the Island of St. Helena.

There are at least two queer freaks of nature on the island of St. Helena—or, rather, four, for one of them is a group of three figures—known to the world over as the "Devil's Nose" and "Lot and His Daughters." Any one who is able to study the island as it is and not run wild over the Napoleonic legends which have clustered about that "seabound rock" since the days when the "Little Corporal" was housed there in his living grave will find much that will repay for investigation, time and study.

The queerest of the natural formations are the oddities above alluded to. The first of these imitative forms is a rocky promontory which has been known by names which signify Old Nick's nasal projection since May 22, 1802, when Juan Castella and his men sighted the island just in time to see the devil disappear beneath the waves in the best harbor, leaving his nose as a reminder of what might happen should the venturesome Spaniard seek to take possession of his Satanic majesty's favorite haunts.

"Lot and His Daughters" are three conical rocks which can only be construed into representing a man and two women by a strong play of the imagination. According to the views of some writers they are weather worn statues of colossal size, probably the work of some aborigines of the island. Their gigantic size, however, would seem to preclude this idea. When or by whom they were dubbed "Lot and His Daughters" no authority has ventured to say.

CONJURING BIRDS.

Trick Sparrows of Hongkong and One of Their Feats.

The famous Chinese conjuring birds are Java sparrows. At street corners in Hongkong sedate old Chinese may be seen putting the birds through their tricks for the benefit of strangers.

Each birdcage has a sliding door, and just outside this is a pack of little cardcases, each containing a picture and a small pot holding half a dozen grains of rice.

When the stranger, pursuant to the suggestion of the owner, hands over the necessary coin this is placed with the pack of cards at the cage door. Then the owner will undo the fastening of the door. The bird, eyeing the coin, then the cards, then the coin again, as if he thought his performance too cheaply valued, descends from his perch, opens the door with his beak, hops outside, draws a card from the pack and passes it to his master. He receives in reward one grain of rice.

The man takes the little picture from the case received from the bird and hands it to the stranger to inspect. He then returns it to the case, accompanied by the tiniest flat slip of bamboo, and shuffles the case up with the rest of the pack. The bird descends and selects a case, and the stranger opens it, to find the identical one containing the bamboo.

How can this be accounted for? The only possible way of explaining is that the bamboo slip is slightly scented.—Exchange.

God created man a little lower than the angels, but you can't make some men believe it.

When a woman announces that she has been driving, one might be pardoned for wondering whether it was horses, bargains or nails.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said: "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was. Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery. Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Danduff, Falkland Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit.

Luck Did It

By RUTH GRAHAM

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Johnny O'Neil and Kitty Bowers were two young things who loved each other and wished to marry. But Johnny, who was but twenty years old, had nothing laid up, and Kitty's father didn't purpose to support his daughter and her husband too. So he forbade the match. Philip Bowers was a farmer who prided himself on having made himself comfortable by hard work and good judgment.

"You've got to begin," he said to his would-be son-in-law, "the way I began. I was a farm hand, and of every dollar I earned I saved a half. When I got a small lump together I loaned it at a big interest till I'd got enough together to buy this farm, part cash and part mortgage. I had to live close to pay the mortgage, but I did it, and now I'm prosperous."

"Didn't luck have anything to do with it?" asked Johnny.

"Not a bit. Never had any luck in my life. What I've got I've made in spite of luck."

Johnny asked Kit to meet him out on a projecting corner of her father's farm to talk matters over. They chose this spot because it was far from the house and they were not liable to interruption there. It was an unproductive piece of ground that had been tacked on to the farm in order to sell it.

Johnny and Kit looked at the situation and saw no comfort in it. John had no one to help him, and Kit knew her father too well to expect any help from him.

There was not $20 to be scraped together between the two. Kit said she would wait, but John, who was an impatient fellow, didn't wish to wait. He said that to go about the problem of life as Mr. Bowers proposed would be impossible to a man of his disposition. He told Kit that he would go out into the world and do what he could. She could wait for him or not, as she chose. If he had any luck he would come back and claim her; if not, she might marry some one else in case she got a good offer.

Kit bade him goodbye with streaming eyes and went home, while he stood looking after her. When she reached a point where she would pass from his view she turned, threw him a kiss, which he returned, and then she disappeared.

The only consolation Johnny had was his pipe. He took it out of his pocket, filled it and sat down on the ground for a smoke. It was one of those warm sultry days that sometimes come just before the collapse of summer. Johnny sank lower and lower on the ground till at last he was sprawled at full length. Then he turned on his side with his nose not two inches above the earth.

"Some one," he said to himself, "must have spilled kerosene here. I can smell it." He put his nose flat down on the surface and sniffed. The odor was unmistakable. He moved a short distance, sniffed again and got the same odor. After testing several locations he found that the odor was strongest where he had first smelled it, but it was so scattered that it could not have come from the overturning of a can of kerosene. Johnny had discovered coal oil on Mr. Bower's ground.

That night he returned with a spade and dug a hole where he had first detected the odor. The deeper he dug the more perceptible the odor. When he was satisfied he filled the hole, obliterated the marks of it and went away.

A few days later Farmer Griggs, owning land adjoining the Bowers farm, dickered with Bowers for the corner of the farm on which John and Kitty had parted and bought it for a song. It was decided to Griggs, who decided it to John O'Neil and a man he had induced to advance the money for its purchase. One morning Mr. Bowers saw preparations for boring on the property he had sold. He was much interested. All day he could hear the noise of the boring. Then there was a stopping of the work for two months, at the end of which time it was recommenced. After several of these stops, covering a period of nearly a year, Mr. Bowers heard something that astonished him. Rushing out to where the men were boring, he saw a stream of oil shooting up toward the sky.

Bowers was much disgruntled that some one had discovered oil on his property and had got it from him for a paltry sum. He tried to find out who were the lucky parties, but failed. Meanwhile the Eagle Oil company was organized, but the well was soon sold out to the Universal Oil company and was merged into its extensive properties.

One day Johnny O'Neil appeared at the Bowers farm dressed in city clothes and with all appearance of prosperity. Indeed, he drove up in a $7,500 automobile. He said he came for Kitty and after a showing of his assets to her father had no difficulty in getting her. Just before the young man's departure Mr. Bowers asked: "How did you do it, Johnny?" "Luck," replied Johnny as he was whirled away.

After Johnny and Kit were married Mr. Bowers made another attempt to discover how Johnny had made his fortune. He received no more explicit reply than before. John knew the old man would never forgive him for getting the better of him.

Alabama people call themselves Alabamians. Residents of the city of Atlanta style themselves Atlantians. New York folks for short say New Yorkers and there are the Bostonians, the Philadelphians and the Baltimoreans but the biggest and most unmanageable mouthful is "San Franciscans" as used in some of the dispatches of late.

The Governor's message was able and comprehensive. The Governor has not accepted many invitations to make speeches here and there over the State, but he has been studying and applying his splendid mental attainments to the State's problems and the fruits of his efforts are manifest in his admirable, well digested utterance on the State's affairs and needs.

Mr. Finley's argument in behalf of what has come to be known as "the mileage book nuisance" seems to imply that the conductors of the several railroads issuing the interchangeable mileage can't be relied on to look after the interests of their roads. This is a reflection on the conductors. Perhaps the system of "checks" on which the Southern's president relies so strongly could be operated on the trains.

Joseph G. Robin is a fallen New York banker. It is pretty bad for a banker to fall, but there would have been more sympathy for Robin if he had not, as he did the other day, refused to own his own father and mother. A man who will refuse to yield respect to his parents is almost, if not quite, a hopeless case. We can see how one's father, or mother, or both could disgrace their offspring, but even then the child owes the duty of allegiance and of respect for whatever remnant of character there is to inspire respect.

The successful and courageous public man has a fight on his hands all the time. As soon as Woodrow Wilson had fought his way to victory in his contest for the Governorship of New Jersey, he found that he had on his hands a fight within his party, namely, to put outside the political breastworks James Smith, Jr., Democratic candidate for the Senate and whose election would hurt the Democratic party in New Jersey and the nation. Wilson didn't shirk the fight. "God defend us," he declared night before last in Jersey City, "against compromise; I would rather be a knave than a coward." Towards cut a sorry figure in the strenuous politics of the present time. All observant people are able to "spot" them.

WOMAN AND THE BALLOT.

A suffragette writing to the Baltimore Sun asks that the vagaries of her sex be considered in the light of woman's immured and circumscribed existence, and declares that woman wants equal suffrage rights in order that she may gain "balance and dignity."

It is true that responsibility should certainly bring both "balance" and "dignity." Woman needs employment, just as man needs employment, but we could never think otherwise than that woman is by nature fitted, and by the Creator intended, for a sphere of work not co-ordinate with that of man, but supplemental to it. The work of man alone would render the world a very lop-sided place of residence, even if it could survive at all. And when woman as a sex assumes responsibilities that are by nature, tradition, and immemorial practice, distinctly masculine, she stands in danger of losing "dignity," and is following a path leading diametrically away from "balance," which thing can come to woman in its truest and most sublime sense, only when she is respected and loved by him whom she too often foolishly and erratically believes is keeping her from taking what is not really her own.

THE CHILD WITH A PENNY.

Baltimore Sun.
I saw him go by in the rush of the street
With a dream in his eyes and a smile that was sweet.
He had only a cent in his fist, but it seemed
As great as the wealth that the wisest have dreamed,
And he whistled away with the merriest measure
At the thought of his penny, his infinite treasure.

He would glance in each window while dancing along,
Just picking and choosing while humming his song,
And the cent in his hand grew so large every minute
That it seemed like the gold of Golconda was in it.
Oh, the light in his eyes, and the joy on his face,
They were sweet as the morning of life with their grace!

There were manifold fancies in that little brain,
For he bought in his dreams with that penny a train,
And a ship and a sled and a top and a swing,
And he moved through the world with the pride of a king.
Yea, he hummed and he smiled and he whistled and sang
And the bubbles of bloom in his pathway upsprang.

It was like a delight that we lost long ago
To watch him go by on the tip of his toe,
With his penny clasped tight, and that hating to part
With a treasure so dear to his little child heart,
Till he'd picked out the very best thing he could buy
With the coin that seemed big in his little child eye.

Now he tripped, now he pranced, now he sauntered along,
And his lips kept in tune to his heart's little song;
He would buy, he would buy all the world, so it seemed,
By the way that he thought and the way that he dreamed.
Whether candy or cakes, whether orange or apple—
Oh, my what a terrible problem to grapple!

There was sunshine about him that reached unto me
As I saw him go by in his moment of glee;
And I knew how he felt, and I felt it once more.
That spirit of joy in my heart as of yore,
When I danced like a child, just as happy as any,
When I used to be glad, oh, so glad, with a penny!

EMPLOYMENT FOR LADIES

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Calls Their Attention To Hudson Overall Factory.

Editor Telegram:—
There are a lot of people who do not know that the Hudson Overall Company has a sewing room here in our city where ladies can secure employment, the work being light, surroundings pleasant, building comfortable, clean and well lighted. The management is lenient and the people already engaged are some of our best citizens. They observe all holidays, give vacation in summer and their hours are not long, an hour being given for lunch which enables them to go home. They are also off on Saturday afternoons.

This work is especially easy for ladies since it is done sitting and is not as wearing and damaging to one's health as work that requires standing all day. Not only is this work convenient for those whom circumstances make it necessary for them to help their families but also for those who are ambitious to add

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all the other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

more to what they already have. A number employed now are real estate owners who are not content to while away their time.

Not knowing about this class of work you would naturally suppose that it was hard and tiresome but such is not the case. The machines are all run by electricity and only a half-pound pressure is required to operate a machine. The only labor attached to this is laying the work under the machine. Even the pressure foot which holds the work is operated automatically. Their cutting is all done by electricity. The buttons are worked with a machine that can cut and work 15 per minute. The buttons are attached by machine.

Each one has a part to do and it does not require very much experience to learn to be an expert on her particular part. Any one wishing to do something for themselves, it will pay them to investigate this class of work.

It is one of our home companies that we should all feel an interest in, especially since it is doing so much to promote the welfare of our citizens. It is also building a garment that is equalled by none and every pair leaving here bears a label which advertises our city and is an advertisement worthy of recognition.

This concern has one hundred employees on its pay roll today, and last year paid out in Greensboro on account of pay rolls and for raw material, which is manufactured here, over $88,000.

The average wage of the sewers for last year was $1.25 per day, some earning as much as $50 per month.

Mr. Hudson the manager informs me that they have more orders now than they can fill and could give employment to fifty more people at once.

We are in sympathy with a concern like this and it being a home industry, it should have the good will and support of all the Greensboro people.

DANCING GIRLS AND GAMBLING

Secretary Pogue Would "Taboo" Them—Recommends That These Forms of Amusement Be Not Allowed At Next State Fair.

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—If the recommendations of Secretary Pogue, of the North Carolina State Fair, are carried out by the executive committee the management of the 1911 fair will be instructed to rigidly cut out all shows in which dancing girls appear and games in which any phase of gambling appears. Mr. Pogue declares in his report to the executive committee that there are plenty of decent and interesting shows and innocent games of skill with fixed returns to be had after cutting out all the bad and unworthy ones that apply. The State Fair is shown in the reports to have been a record-breaking success with 2,300 more entries than for the year previous. The premiums awarded aggregates $4,026 against $3,750 in 1909.

YESTERDAY WAS EPIPHANY, OR "OLD CHRISTMAS DAY."

Church Festival Celebrating Manifestation of Christ To Gentiles.

Yesterday, January 6, was Epiphany, more generally known among the older people as "Old Christmas." The word Epiphany means an appearance or becoming manifest and is a church festival celebrated in commemoration of the visit of the Magi, or Wise Men of the East, to Bethlehem to see and worship the child, Jesus; or, as others maintain, to commemorate the appearance of the Star to the Wise Men, symbolizing the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

In reference to the day, the Twentieth Century Encyclopedia has the following:

"A festival of the Christian church held on the 6th of January in order to celebrate the manifestation of Christ. In early times, this festival probably commemorated the nativity of the Savior, his manifestation in the flesh, and his manifestation to the Gentiles.

"As a household festival, the Epiphany is better known by the name of the King's Festival, or of Twelfth-Night (being the 12th night from the nativity.) The practice of choosing a king and queen in family merriments upon that night has been traced back to a similar custom among the Romans during the Saturnalia."

There are today some people who believe that "Old Christmas" is the day on which Christ was born, their belief being founded on the saying that at midnight of the night preceding the day, horses neigh, cows get on their knees and moan and the bees roar and other unusual sounds are made by animals and fowls.

It is also claimed that each of the twelve days following Christmas will control the day of the weather for the coming twelve months. If this be true, there will be plenty of rain during the summer, and early fall, and cold weather next November and December.

Mr. Dick's Loss.

Mr. John M. Dick, who lost his barn by fire Thursday night, says that it would cost him $1,500 to replace. The feedstuff destroyed amounted to about $300; so that he had a $2,000 fire. His insurance was $800. Mr. Dick says that next time he builds a barn it will not be placed so near the residence. If there had been a high wind Thursday night, there would most likely have been no hope of saving the dwelling. As it was, his family had fright enough for a while.

Death of Infant.

Lawrence, the 7 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hall, died this morning at 2:30 o'clock at the residence, corner Bragg and Ashe streets.

No, Maude, dear; we doubt very much if a blood purifier would prevent the eruptions of Mt. Vesuvius.

AT MRS. EDDY'S TOMB.

Night and Day Trusted Men Keep Vault Where it Rests Constantly in View.

Boston Post.
In a tomb equipped with electric lighting apparatus, telephone and comforts and conveniences for the living occupants or guards reposes the body of Mrs. Baker G. Eddy, founder and head of the Christian Science faith. This strange burial place is a part of Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, where are buried many of New England's greatest dead.

Never before has either a telephone or an electric light wire been placed in the receiving tomb.

The body of Mrs. Eddy lies in Vault 32, which is on the second tier from the top (there are four tiers on each side,) on the right as one enters the vault room. This room is somewhat narrower than that occupied by the guards. It is connected by a gate of grill work, giving a view of the interior.

There are five clusters of incandescent bulbs, one of which is in the guards' room. The flood of light is in the vault room, where the four clusters hung from the roof, bring to view every crack and crevice in the apartment.

Until the final resting place of Mrs. Eddy is selected two men will constantly stand guard in the receiving tomb. They work in relays of 12 hours each, from 7 to 7. A large booth on a raised platform at the right of the guards' room contains a couch and other furniture. The telephone number is not listed in the public directory and will not be known except to the directors of the church. It is a "special line" connecting direct with the Cambridge exchange at Massachusetts avenue and Inman street. By its means the police can be promptly summoned in event of any attempt to remove the body, although the likelihood of such an attempt is scouted by Christian Science leaders.

All visitors to Mount Auburn are discouraged from stopping at the Eddy vault, and those who wish to visit graves of relatives in that section of the cemetery must first convince the cemetery employees of their identity and purpose.

The guards of Mrs. Eddy's body refuse to give their names or discuss their duties with the visitors.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY PILLS

Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Mary C. Abbott, Wolfboro, N. H., says: "I was afflicted with a bad case of rheumatism, due to uric acid that my kidneys failed to clear out of my blood. I was so lame in my feet, joints, and back that it was agony for me to step. I used Foley's Kidney Pills for three days when I was able to get up and move about and the pains were all gone. This great change in condition I owe to Foley's Kidney Pills and recommend them to anyone suffering as I have." Howard Gardner.

SECRECY IN KRUPP'S.

One of the first steps that a new employee at Krupp's (the famous gun and armor factory of Germany) has to take is to bind himself to absolute secrecy as to what he sees or hears in the firm. But, this oath notwithstanding, nothing is left to chance, for every precaution is taken to prevent the employee from knowing anything more than is required for his own immediate work. In the offices all correspondence passes in locked cases. One official forwarding such a case to another writes the name of the addressee on a slip of paper, which is inserted under a glass frame ingeniously mounted in the case. Only on opening the case with its special key can the address be removed, and it is therefore impossible for papers of importance to fall into wrong hands. In the drawing offices every scrap of paper is locked at night into fireproof and burglar proof safes, fitted with time locks. The employees have to change their clothes before entering and after leaving the office, and they take their meals in the works in the dining hall. In cases where the secrets of the firm are inevitably shared by employees Krupp's pays salaries such as would make any attempt at bribery ineffective. This reference is more particularly to the men in charge of the armor plate and steel manufacturing process.—Army and Navy Journal.

SPOILED THE ACT.

An Incident That Enraged the Actor and Amused the Audience.

Some years ago a melodrama was being performed in a country theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his haughty and overbearing conduct, disliked by all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tombs of his ancestors. In the center of the stage upon a marble pedestal stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure. Enter Albert, who thus addressed the statue:

"I am here once again to gaze upon those features which in life so often looked on me with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee adoration. Let me remove the veil which from the vulgar gaze shields the beloved image of a once dear parent!"

Off went the drapery, and, behold, there was disclosed the statue of the father gracefully standing upon its head.

The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed the mistake of the super effectually put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the jeers of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrollable rage of the actor.—London Telegraph.

THE PARISIAN CABMAN.

A Deadly Verbal Insult That With Render Him Speechless.

A discreet knowledge of slang is a very useful accomplishment for the stranger or the foreign resident in Paris. Thus if a cabman is rude or more than usually extortionate or if he splashes you with mud from head to foot as he passes and then turns around to grin at the damage done, and cochers frequently do these things, an inadequate command of the niceties of the French language leaves all the advantages on his side.

You might call him "idiot" or "savage," but this would only tickle him. If, however, you were able to shout "Va donc, Collignon!" the result of the encounter would be at once wholly in your favor.

To say "Collignon" to a cocher is the supreme insult. It leaves him gasping and further speech on his side useless. It is easy to understand why.

Collignon was a coachman who as long ago as 1855 went to the house of a poor professor and murdered him because he had protested against an overcharge. It is satisfactory to know that Collignon was promptly tried, sentenced to death and guillotined. To this day, then, "Va Collignon!" remains the last word.—Paris Cor. New York Sun.

His Inspiration.

"Isn't inspiration a queer thing?" "I suppose so. What about it?"

"Why, a few weeks ago I had a red-hot squabble with my wife over a dressmaker's bill, and when I came down to the office I was mad enough to chew spikes. Then I sat down at my desk and wrote a little poem on 'Help the Erring Brother with a Single Kindly Word!' And, say, those verses, born of bitterness and nourished by anger, have been copied in the leading newspapers all over the country!"

"Fine. Why don't you improve on the idea?"

"How?"

"Why, get mad enough to beat up your wife, set fire to the house, shoot a policeman—and then write an epic that will go thundering down the ages."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lord Brougham's Oratory.

We have no orator in the least like Lord Brougham since the close of Brougham's public career. Everything that nature could do so far as appearance, manner and voice were concerned she had done to prevent him from being a great orator, and yet a great orator he undoubtedly was. I wonder what the house of lords just now would think of a peer who gesticulated and bellowed as Brougham was in the habit of doing. But it was impossible to listen to Brougham and not be carried away by the force of his intellect, by his torrent of words, by the sudden whirl and eddy of his rapid illustrations and by the longer and shorter stretches of quietude and repose into which his argument occasionally flowed.—From Justin McCarthy's "Reminiscences."

History.

History is made by one set of men and written by another.

The character of the written history depends upon the politics of the historian.

Most histories are written many years after the history was made. In these circumstances no one can step forward and dispute the historian.

History is studied at school and forgotten at home.

We are told to judge the future by the past, and after we read the histories we are as badly muddled as ever.

Some statesmen make history, but most of them make speeches.—Judge.

John O'Groat's House.

John O'Groat's house was formerly situated on Duncansby head, the most northerly point of Great Britain. It took its name from John of Groat, or Groat, and his brothers, who came, it is said, from Holland about 1489. The expression so often heard, "From John O'Groat's to Land's End," means the whole length of Great Britain from north to south, like the other expression, "From Dan to Beersheba," meaning the entire length of Palestine.

The Important Question.

"What was the matter with that customer?" asked the proprietor of the swell restaurant.

"When he was through his dinner," explained the waiter excitedly, "he asked for his check, and when I gave it to him he just simply went crazy." "But did he pay as he went?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

All the Difference.

"I understand that the smart set is snubbing the De Bucks because they have a skeleton in their closet."

"Not at all. The snub is because they didn't keep it there."—Cleveland Leader.

The defects of the mind, like those of the face, grow worse as we grow old.—Rochefoucauld.

"Doesn't it make you sad," exclaimed the member of the Audubon Society, "to see women wearing on their hats the feathers of the poor little birds?" "It isn't the feathers that make me sad," replied the married man. "It's the bills."

For LaGrippe, Coughs and Stuffy Colds

Take Foley's Honey and Tar. It gives quick relief and expels the cold from your system. It contains no opiates, is safe and sure. Howard Gardner.

Going Too Far.

"So you've dismissed that maid who used to wear your hats in the street?" "Yes; she started borrowing my complexion as well."—Worcester Gazette.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

That chronic Bright's Disease is now being cured by treatment that reduces inflammation in the kidneys is beginning to be generally known.

We copy the following from the San Francisco Bulletin, June 22d, 1908:

"The recovery is reported of Mrs. Z. Lawton, of 264 Fifth avenue, San Francisco. The case is especially interesting due to the fact that books declare chronic Bright's Disease incurable and five city physicians had passed on and diagnosed the case. The usual symptoms found in extreme cases were reported—excessive dropsy, enlarged heart and towards the last the patient could only sleep sitting up, and for six weeks he slept in a chair. Lawton had a cousin, Mrs. W. E. Hoover of Auburn, who also had an advanced case of Bright's disease. She had been tapped three times when she heard of Fulton's Renal Compound and made a fine recovery. This interested Lawton in the treatment and it resulted in his recovery also. * * * He is a Mason, member of Excelsior Lodge, and many members will recollect his serious predicament and that they thought they would be called on to pass him over."

Parties desiring to know more of this treatment can get full literature by addressing the John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. Fulton's Renal Compound can be had in your city of our agent, Fariss-Klate Drug Co.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week.

DO IT NOW.

Greensboro People Should Not Wait Until it is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them.

Here is one of many cases in this vicinity.

W. C. Blagg, Mendenhall St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am well pleased with the results. I suffered for some time from a dull ache in the small of my back, caused by disordered kidneys. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to give them a trial and procured a box. Judging from my own experience, I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

printed about how I derived my system of signing my name," said Champ
Clark to the World correspondent today.
"I was named James Beauchamp Clark.
Beauchamp—pronounced Beecham—was my mother's maiden name. 'J. B.' was too common. There was a J. B. Clark getting mail at every postoffice in America. I dropped the James."

"Later I found that Beauchamp was practically unpronounceable for the average run of Americans. To avoid having people think there was something queer about me I boiled the name down to 'Champ,' and it was the brightest act of my early career. I've been Champ Clark when other people were just 'Mister' Clark or Mr. Somebody Else. In a list of names of Democrats Champ Clark's name has had to be printed for the purposes of identification when the deeds of the owner of the name were of minor importance. It was a good way to keep before the public."

A RELIABLE COUGH MEDICINE

Is a valuable friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fulfills this condition exactly.
Mrs. Charles Kline, N. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in the house. It soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." Howard Gardner.

Not Her First.

"Then you accept me?"

"Yes, dear."

"But will your father give his consent?"

"Why not? He always has."—Pittsburg Post.

Solves a Deep Mystery.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters has no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c. at

NO CLOUD IN THE SKY.

Business Horizon Bright, Says Master of Steel Corporation.

New York American.

Judge E. H. Gary, master of the United States Steel Corporation, the world's greatest industrial enterprise, sees no ill omen upon the business horizon of the new year.

"I am a conservative optimist," he declared yesterday to an American reporter. "At the beginning of 1910," he went on, "I sounded a note of warning.
I then perceived that business prospects were not so roseate as many men of large affairs were proclaiming. I now desire to take issue with many of the same men who are declaring that 1911 is to be a 'bad' year."

"From my lights, I feel as capable of expressing the conviction that the outlook for the year is good as they do of declaring to the contrary. On the whole, conditions seem sound, with nothing within my purview to cause alarm.
Why others are filling the newspapers with pessimistic utterances I am unable to understand."

"The year that has just closed called for the greatest output of ingots and steel rails in the history not only of the United States Steel Corporation, but of that industry in the country."

Foley's Kidney Remedy—An Appreciation
L. McConnell, Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble.
Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken." Howard Gardner.

Mrs. Gnaggs—"I'll never forget the night you proposed to me. You acted like a perfect fool." Mr. Gnaggs—
"That wasn't acting."

THE BALTIMORE JUBILEE

A Line on the Orators of the Occasion—All There But Bryan.

Washington Star.

These are the speakers for the Democratic lovefeast and talkfest to be held at Baltimore on the 17th. Gov. Judson Harmon, Ohio; Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss, Massachusetts; Joseph C. S. Blackburn, Kentucky; Theodore M. Bell, California; Representative Champ Clark, Missouri; United States Senator B. F. Shively, Indiana; United States Senator Robert L. Taylor, Tennessee; United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey, Texas; Representative-elect Martin W. Littleton, New York, and Major J. C. Hemphill, Richmond, Va.

The list is worth a word. All sections of the country and both factions of the party are represented. Some distinguished names easily associable with such an occasion do not appear, but the names that do appear are those of men from whom the Democracy and the country will be glad to hear. Preparations suggest an attempt at harmony.

From New York Representative-elect Littleton is taken. He is new to politics, but an able man, and, his friends believe, a coming one. This will give him a chance to show his quality. Governor Dix, Mayor Gaynor and Judge Parker were passed over.

Mr. Foss will speak for the Massachusetts Democracy, and was chosen probably because of a desire of the national Democracy to build on him in the Bay State. The old-time Democratic leaders are in the background.

Senator Shively, and not Governor Marshall or John W. Kern, will speak for Indiana. A good selection, although Governor Marshall would have caught the crowd.

Kentucky was drawn upon for former Senator Blackburn, whose present role, after 40 years of politics and office, is that of farmer. Shall we see him return to the old field? There is something doing at present in Bluegrass politics, although Mr. Blackburn is not an announced candidate for any place.

Governor Harmon is well chosen, as are Mr. Clark, of Missouri; Mr. Bell, of California, and Senator Taylor.

Senator Bailey is a sort of topline. In a way he will be the most interesting man at the meeting. On the tariff question he leads the movement for an expression of old-time, rather than later, experimental Democracy. He turns from Grover Cleveland back to Robert J. Walker, and wants to carry his party with him. He will loom large in the next Congress, and probably in the next Democratic national convention.

But where is Mr. Bryan? Will—Can—the festivities be complete without him? All things considered, is he not still the most interesting man in the party? True, he is associated only with failure. The Wilson tariff bill which he helped to frame failed, while he jumped in second in three Presidential races. But, for all that, he retains a strong hold on many men, and what he says "goes" with them. Could it have been arranged to seat him opposite to Mr. Bailey at table what an attractive section of the dining hall that would have been!
